

Fury In The Slaughterhouse, Down There

between the stars we're sitting here our wives are having breakfast now down on earth the skies are clear oh how we wish that they were here tell me what we're doing here watching the dirty atmosphere we're searching for a place for the human race
out in space

down there's america
down there's africa down there are still people who think that mankind is the most important thing we'll circle till eternity around the world in minutes we understand the history the whole human catastrophe good morning ground control

down there's australia
down there are still people who think that mankind is the most important will my dog still know who I am (get shaved and it'll be alright) will we return to what we know (everything's gonna be alright) but if you ask me I don't know if I really want to go back down there

down there's asia
down there are still people who think

down there glows america down there glows africa down there burn the people that think that mankind is the most important thing
