I saw you from behind on the corner looking just like you did then You slipped away into the crowded street And I swiftly chased after you

I thought it was natural to always be by your side Back the, you loved me as I am, and I hurt you "I won't let you go...I don't want to..." Do they still reach you? That time and those unchangeable feelings

Only the pain I feel tells me I'm alive I'm so stupid You held me when I was afraid of the dark I won't forget that

I still remember the day we first met You were staring at me as the wind quietly stirred your hair I thought I could always be with you over anyone else I thought if I was with you, even I could laugh

Separating is so painful We'd been running blind until today

Ever since i disappeared, you've cried and worried But i watched you walk along with someone i don't know You've grown up a bit and your smile is even more lovely You'll never cry again, never cry again Show me your smile
