</lyrics>

There are times when I'm separated from you and I think
About how I never realized when we were together

That time when we smiled at each other
Everyone was crying like they were the same
Even gladness, even this pain, could understand each other

No matter who is your only love
I can't hold you twice more
Our important memories stand swaying in the distance

There are times when I'm separated from you and I think
About how I never realized when we were together
