Galadriel, Fear in Their Eyes

What for a fear in their eyes I see When they stand alone, lonely before the gate of the death

What they fear, What for they cry Who prisoned their souls, who kills them... eternal night!

How many venoms already ran through their veins How long time they had trashed their souls

Their minds were obscured to bury the truth They fear for blood that flows down people's hands

I can hear that screams, can feel that pain Penetrating deep to my head I grovel at the ground, feel the cold sweat That is the LAST!!!

White walls of my room are hunting me That long fall will be myself's victory

What for a fear in their eyes I see When they stand alone, lonely before the gate

Their minds were obscured to bury the truth They fear for blood that flows down people's hands
