Galadriel, The Forest Lullaby

The forest is within me and I am in I'm the birds' singing above my head And the wind what sleeps In crowns of trees

I've noticed her strange dance of a nakedness Just green ornaments Ornaments on her face Twinkling in the glare of a blaze

"The nature adducted me in her lab, I'm her daughter Singing of the birds is my lullaby The rustling leaves of the trees, it's my heartbeat"

I lie down face to the Earth I blur it on my body Just a dense rain drums against My skin in the rhythm of primeval

I've seen that rituals My desires to touch her That nature in a human shape But she disappeared in the depth of the forest
