Ganggajang, Just Can't Help

Sometimes you know I hear you crying in the night
Your sobbing sounds so lonely, don't worry It'll be alright
I know you're dreaming, I know you're lost in a world that's fake
A crazy world from which there's no escape

I just can't help if you don't want to talk about it
I can't help if you don't tell me what's wrong
I just can't help if you don't want to talk about it
You've got to let me know what's wrong

Sometimes the night is lonely and the wind is blowing cold
In the streets you hear the echoes of lost and lonely souls
You know you're dreaming, you know you're lost in a world that's false
A Dali land of weeping clocks

I just can't help if you don't want to talk about it
I can't help if you don't tell me what's wrong
I just can't help if you don't want to talk about it
You've got to let me know what's wrong

Sometimes you know you've got to tell me when things are not going right
Always you know I'll be there and we'll see away the night
You're only dreaming, you're only walking in a Dali Land
Of dripping skies and shifting sands

I just can't help if you don't want to talk about it
I can't help if you don't tell me what's wrong
I just can't help if you don't want to talk about it
You've got to let me know what's wrong
