

Garret, No

No time
No time to think and no time to change your mind
No time to trust another heart
No place
No place to cry and no place to be alone, all alone
No place where you dont belong
Where, just where did it go?
Is it so far away?
I know its still in you
And for sure you know it too
No light
No light to see and no light to bright things up
No light to shine down this darkened room
No one
No one will look and no one is making me blind
No one will take this pain away
No voice
No voice to whisper and no voice to make you turn around
No voice to frighten my fears away
No heart
No heart should feel this sad, no heart can shut out love when love is breathing
No heart is strong enough to beat, beat unhurt