Gary Numan, We Have A Technical

We have a random on the westside Personality malfunction
He says I can't give you anything at all Just a room with a bad view of you He sent a letter to a downstat Saying sorry that I missed you But I can't think of anything to do He's addicted to the time track

We have a technical We have a technical

He's in a hotel where they all go Saying "Boy, I've lost my memory" It's so surprising Just how quickly things can end Like a hero on a platform of friends This table is so crowded With people that I don't know And I never really turn

My thoughts on you So the image breaks down again

We have a technical We have a technical

I suppose it's very shady
At least until the lights go out
Advertising posters on the wall
And the young boys singing softly
Do they ever come back
Or is it always at the wrong time
I could crawl around the floor
Just like I'm real
And move a hand in front of my eyes

We have a technical We have a technical
