

Gary Stewart, Single Again

Today, I heard the awful news
Someone told the gospel truth
Said you've been running 'round
With a stranger who just hit town

He's got a black mustache
And a red Cadillac
Now he's got you
And I've got two
Divorce lawyers on my back

Single again!
Back on the streets again
The old bars ain't changed much
Just a new face or two
When you're out of touch

Single again!
Born to lose, dying to win
Only thing I'm running from
Is the alimony man
Because I'm single again

Drifting around from bar to bar
Running into our old friends
They won't know where ya are

Last I heard, a little while back
You were cruising town in his Cadillac
Drinkin' champagne... showing off a diamond ring

I'm getting by
In these hard times
Livin' from drink to drink

Single again!
A'back on the streets again
The old bars ain't changed much
Just a new face or two
When you're out of touch

Single again!
Born to lose, dying to win!
The only thing I'm a'running from
Is the alimony man
'cause I'm single again!
