

Gavin Mikhail, Not Enough

I can't believe the things you said to me now I am
Not alright, not well, and I cannot yet tell
You if I'll survive in spite of all the hurt, lost time
'Cause I'm a million miles away inside... and I can't breathe...

Just know I did not believe your lies
And now I will not be there by your side
When all of your choices come to haunt you
The things you've done to me after all I've done for you...

You left, you said you were never very much in love with me
And I am not enough of everything you think you need
But I cannot believe you took for granted every time that I took a stand for you
I see now you are not enough that (someone) for someone like me...

I hoped, I prayed that you could somehow find a way
To stay for one more day for me... for all that we could be...

But, no, you did not give me that right
And now I will not be there by your side
When all of your choices come to haunt you
The things you've done to me after all I've done for you...

You left, you said you were never very much in love with me
And I am not enough of everything you think you need
But I cannot believe you took for granted every time that I took a stand for you
I see now you are not enough that (someone) for someone like me...

Now I'm alright
I still get by
It comes as no surprise
Living without you
I am still breathing and alive
Now that you're out of my life
I'm not giving up everything I have for you, no more, I'm through
You know I'll never break again for you...

You left, you said you were never very much in love with me
And I am not enough of everything you think you need
But I cannot believe you took for granted every time that I took a stand for you
I see now you are not enough that (someone) for someone like me...
