

GAWNE, HURT (feat. Atlas)

And I've been hurt before
But never quite like this
You really got me good you got me good
You strung me up and left me out to dry
And I've been hurt before
But still gave you my trust
I guess I wasn't enough guess I wasn't enough
Not good enough to be loved not good enough to be loved
Not good enough to be loved

So let me ask you this: are you finally happy now?
Bet you got your wish of leaving me here
And our house full of all memories spending all these years together
What we shared, everything
Never could even see clear without you let a bone[?] breathe the air breathe the air
But I cannot change, the fact that I've been through pain
Lot of things I just can't explain
After all you never loved me while I was here
So why would you miss me when I'm gone
It's getting hard when you care 'bout someone so much
But it don't really feel the same and I'm movin' on movin' on
And you no longer here when I'm getting home
Now the side of your bed is cold
That I have never slept alone in years so at night I check my phone
To see if you still think of me before you lay down
And go to sleep because you never texted, you never called
Don't let me fall, babe rescue me

And I've been hurt before
But never quite like this
You really got me good you got me good
You strung me up and left me out to dry
And I've been hurt before
But still gave you my trust
I guess I wasn't enough guess I wasn't enough
Not good enough to be loved not good enough to be loved
Not good enough to be loved

You walked out that door and I, never wanna be that guy, to cry
But you let a piece of me die, babe
Why did you always gotta feed me the lies tellin' me
That we'd be together even if the reason ties
But inside you knew that has never good enough for you?
It's true, you held my feet to the fire 'cause I wasn't worth it
Try, why am I so god damn worthless hurtin' inside but you're still fine?
Bye, I don't wanna be here anymore
Hope you find everything you're looking for
But no coming back no more 'cause you would use only torture
I am never going back, what's after?
I am only moving forward

And I've been hurt before
But never quite like this
You really got me good you got me good
You strung me up and left me out to dry
And I've been hurt before
But still gave you my trust
I guess I wasn't enough guess I wasn't enough
Not good enough to be loved not good enough to be loved
Not good enough to be loved
