

Gay Dad, Pathfinder

diver down into the ocean take her away tell my friends I'm doing fine now at least today
I watch you breathing I see you rise and fall sometimes it gets so dark you don't see the sun at all sign your name if it makes it better it could be just like it was you know that crying won't help you now if it ever did at all I can see much further now than I ever did before but I really do appreciate your time so kiss me like the ocean breeze kiss me like you still remember come on and kiss me like the ocean breeze kiss me like you still remember me I need to know my friend does it hurt are you in pain do it clean my friend take your time peace will come again would you believe me that I just have to want to need to want to break free
so kiss me like the ocean breeze
kiss me like you still remember
come on and kiss me like the ocean breeze
kiss me like you still remember me