Gene Clark, For Me Again

The moon can light the sky at night for me again The sun can make the daytime bright and fun again And my heart can be free the way it wants to be Cause you come back to me again

The wind blows pain and clouds of rain away again And let's me stay with just a happy day again Cause now I really see how much you do love me How good the world can be again

Oh when you left that day I forgot how to care And I hid myself away But now since you are here

Winter days will seem like spring to me again With all the love that you will bring to me again And no matter what I'Il do I will always see it through Cause I won't be without you again
