

Gene Simmons, Beautiful

(Mark Singh, Nina Addison)

Spent your money on silicone honey (Ooooh)
(Ooooh) You're somebody beautiful, look at yourself
(Ooooh) You're somebody beautiful, like nobody else

(Verse)

Hey, put on those fake eyelashes
Wax away the old mustache
You're six foot four in six-inch heels
A cupid tattoo behind your ear
You're an ingenue in the full-length mirror
A tight black dress
All the right moves from your long blonde tresses to your sequined shoes

(Chorus)

(Ooooh) You're somebody beautiful, look at yourself
You're somebody beautiful (Beautiful, ooooh)
You're somebody beautiful, like nobody else
You're somebody beautiful (Beautiful, ooooh)
You're somebody beautiful, look at yourself
You're somebody beautiful (You're somebody beautiful)

(Verse)

Downtown on Saturday night
They happen to catch you in the light
You'd like to dance but they want you to fight
They could never understand what it's like
To reach the age of twenty three
Knowing what you are you're not supposed to be
Spent your money on silicone honey (Ooooh)
Made up your mind for the very first time

(Chorus)

(Ooooh) You're somebody beautiful, look at yourself
You're somebody beautiful (Beautiful, ooooh)
You're somebody beautiful, like nobody else

(Break)

Like a hollywood legend or a rock 'n roll star
What you are is what you are
Standing there naked in the mirror's embrace you say:
"This is my body, this is my face"

(Guitar Solo)

Spent your money on silicone honey (Ooooh)...

(Chorus)

(Ooooh) You're somebody beautiful, look at yourself
You're somebody beautiful (Beautiful, ooooh)
You're somebody beautiful, like nobody else
You're somebody beautiful (Beautiful, ooooh)
You're somebody beautiful, look at yourself
You're somebody beautiful (Beautiful)
You're somebody beautiful
