

George Clanton, I Been Young

Chalk it up to them □misunderstanding □what I said
Making □up the rules to win a □game inside my head
I think I'm growin' up but nah (if I'm growin')
I'm just growing old
Hanging on to every grudge I think I need to hold
Can't remember who I'm even fighting anymore
You'd think I'd know my way by now
(But I'm lost and...) Now I can't be found

And I been wrong
And I been young
Wrong enough to say I'm sorry
Owning up to things I can't undo
And I been young
Growing up is never easy
Can't you see how life is blinding you?

Young enough to start a life and old enough to die
Waste a couple of years while I make my mind

And I been wrong
And I been young
Wrong enough to say I'm sorry
Owning up to things I can't undo
And I been young
Growing up is never easy
Can't you see how life is blinding you?

Can't you see how life is blinding you?
(Growing up is never easy)
