

George Fox, To The Void

So we all bend down to reason pure and simple and its reasonable to a ache upon the tail and like soldiers who are driven on to battle there are those of us who question not at all

so we all bend down to reason pure and simple and we file inline as battle general's call and the pragmatists logistical tactician leads technocrats to doom without delay and like astronauts with wings of pure intention our rocket ships burn fuel of yesterday while tomorrow is a distance near stagnation when material growth will eat the world away

when material growth will eat the world away

so we all bend down to reason pure and simple and its reasonable to ache upon the tail
and like soldiers who are driven on to battle
there are those of us who question not at all there are those of you who question not at all