George Jones, Love coming down

I remember how your eyes used to light upOver promises that I madeBut for the first time in my life