George Jones, Old, Old House

WRITERS GEORGE JONES, HAL BYNUM

There's an old old house that once was a mansion On a hill overlookin' the own Where time's left a wreck where once was a beauty And soon the old house will tumble down

When the leaves begin to fall in the autumn And the raindrops drip from the trees There's an old old man who walks in the garden And his head is bowed in memory.

They say he built the mansion for the love of a woman And they planned to be married in the fall But her love withered in the last days of summer And the house stands empty after all.
