

George Jones, She knows what she's crying about

You may think she ain't been true all those things she's telling you
But believe me what she says is