

George Morgan, You're That Much Woman To Me

If I woke up without you tomorrow this world would be useless to me
I would drown in an ocean of sorrow cause you're that much woman to me

You're the beat of my heart please believe me and I'll love you through eternity
I would die if you ever should leave me cause you're that much woman to me (steel)

If a great wall were built all around you twice as high as a man's eyes could see
I would carry it all down till I found cause you're that much woman to me

You're the beat of my heart please believe me...
