

George Strait, What Would Your Memories Do

(Hank Cochran/Dean Dillon)

What would your memories do
If they didn't have my mind to run through
If they didn't have my heart to break in two
What would your memories do?

Wonder what would happen
If one morning your memories woke up to find my mind gone
Would they go as crazy without me, as I have without you
Would they last as long?

If someday they found the door to my mind
Had been locked from inside by my heart
What would they do if they couldn't use you
Any longer to tear me apart?

What would your memories do
If they didn't have my mind to run through?
If they didn't have my heart to break in two
What would your memories do?

Tell me what would your memories do?..