

Ghoti Hook, Two Years To Never

Broke down, derailed
The passion fleeting
Misplaced a sense of urgency
Do we believe and keep on trying?
Do we concede our will to be

What will it take for us?
The years have led us to this evening
And can desire be enough?
What else is left for us to say?

Two years, we'll walk, we won't look back
Two years to never have
A love that felt so right
So many times we were let down
So many times we found
A reason to let go

We've played this scene, still making efforts
One theme, one dream we hope is true
Despite ourselves, our careless reasons
A mean, a need to carry through

What will it take for us?
The years have led us to this evening
And can desire be enough?
What else is left for us to say?

Two years, we'll walk, we won't look back
Two years to never have
A love that felt so right
So many times we were let down
So many times we found
A reason to let go

And after you have hit the floor
You question to stand up for more
The odds are looking very slim
There's less of you and more of them
Is this for nothing? Do we care?
The nameless faces unaware
How many times to kiss the ground
To get up for another round

What will it take for us?
The years have led us to this evening
And can desire be enough?
What else is left for us to say?

Two years, we'll walk, we won't look back
Two years to never have
A love that felt so right
So many times we were let down
So many times we found
A reason to let go