

Ginny Owens, To Trust You

I knock upon your door, won't you answer?
I'm waiting for a word, just a whisper.
But if you can't answer me this time,
I can handle everything just fine.

Somehow I seem to think I have power,
and i know best how to make things better.
I try to carry everything alone;
Now the time has come to let go...

To trust you with my life,
to believe you all the time,
and to leave my doubt behind.
Oh, to trust you with my life,
Oh, to trust you with my life.

When will i ever learn to stop and listen,
To keep knocking on your door until it opens?
Teach me what it means to believe
That you are strong enough to carry me.

To trust you with my life,
To believe you all the time,
And to leave my doubt behind.
Oh to trust you with my life,
And to give you everything-
All the deepest parts of me.
And to know you're always right,
Oh to trust you with my life...

Broken here before you on my knees
Is my only hope of finding peace

CHORUS

Oh to trust you with my life
To trust you with my life
