

Glasseater, Second Door To The Right

Where did you go?

You don't reside here anymore

The girl next door, walked out her door

Searching for something more

You're screaming

I can't hear one word you say

Let's settle down, let's talk it out and realize nothing's wrong

No one understands you

You're all alone

Just know there's one word to change it all

One word to take it all back and start from scratch