

Glenn Hughes, Down

Well I'm feelin' like you took me in
And wrapped your cursed magic over me
If you vow to never cross my path
I'll give you back the shame
So you could see - I'd rather be dead

Deep down inside your dream
The evil that you make
You put my life on trial
It's a chance I have to take
Too late the rhapsody
That plays inside my head
It's dark before the dawn
My eyes are burnin' red

I've been down is where you left me
I've been down, I do not belong

I've been down, won't somebody help me?
I've been down, I did you no wrong

In your world that's hid by tinted glass
You lie behind the fragments of yourself
In an empty room, you hide behind the Smile that pulls me back again, time again

The pistol's in my hand
I have to let you know
I put you in the ground
Now I have to let you go
The serpent that I ride
Has put a grip on me
My pain is glorified
Why can't you let it be?
