

Glenn Kaiser Band, In My Younger Days

Lord, it's cold outside tonight
How I wish, Lord, the light should come
So cold outside,

In my younger days,
I almost lost my mind
In the summer of my days, swallowed anything I'd find
If I knew then what I know now,
I would have left it all behind

Lord, I drank myself to sleep, and you know I woke up cryin'
I drugged myself to sleep,
how I used to wake up cryin'
Only one thing that I'm sure of only grace kept me from dyin'
In my younger days

People looked at me like I was in my prime Didn't know fact from fiction,
not a dollar from a dime
In my younger days
In my younger days

Like a bolt of lightnin'
through my windowpane
I saw the writin' on my wall, and there I saw my name
In my younger days,
I finally hit the ground
I saw the door to paradise, and how I cried out loud
In my younger days
In my younger days
I met love and it moved me
Gone from lost to bein' found
