

Gloryhammer, Silent Tears of Frozen Princess

Sometimes I seem to drown in woe but there is a hope glooming inside my heart alone when I think of you remembering bygone days and your silvery laugh it will not resound again caught in a shroud of ice

But I will not cease seeking for you

Frozen princess in this land of fears your mighty kingdom has fallen i see the glitter of your silent tears afar in the wuthering dark

Every night I feel you're near vivid memories they dance within my reach and still are so far from here your angelic grace shall be ablaze with lights again my hammer my break the spell before the last hope dies

My path carries on
seeking for you

My forces conspire to bring back the warmth of your smile my heart set on fire it will burn down your prison of cold it's burning for you