

God Module, Reverse Inversion

We will never know how it feels to be alive
To have stars in the sky form symbols that show me how to survive
I'll never learn the code to break down fear
I'd bring about the end of the world to be sure you were here with me

Heaven holds nothing that I need to know
Now the sky is breaking down, falling just for show
To reverse this inversion would turn everything inside out
I'd tear apart time and space to know what their about

We will never know how it feels to die in our dreams
To rip the wings off angels to show them, things aren't what they seem
I'll never know why it hurts so much to care
I'd bring about the end of the world to be sure you are here with me
