

Godsmack, Surrender

You've always told me
That you know me
But you don't really know me at all
You just played me and betrayed me
And showed no sympathy at all

Why can't you just please surrender
Surrender what you promised
Surrender what I need
Why can't you just see that sweet surrender in me one time... Surrender to me

So will you stand tall, and be accountable, and tell that little girl you lied?
How you lost it
I'm so exhausted and this is where I draw the line
For the last time

I'm done wasting time
I'm so sick of your lies
And every time you seem to change your mind
Manipulate - So quick to hate
A true master of your art you demonstrate
But I need a break from you
I need to separate from you
I need to keep my faith and do all the other things I promised to Why you always make me wait on you
I really need a break from you
I need to keep my faith and do all the other things I promised to
I really need a break!
