

Golden Earring, The Road Swallowed Her Name

From the Album:

* Seven tears

I'm sitting down here and I'm feeling annoyed

All those months and fun and joy

But all there's left is sorrow and pain

Where have you gone I'm going insane

refrein:

And the road swallows her name

And the memory still remains

Saying love is a wonderful thing

It can't fly on a broken wing

And the road swallows her name

And the memory still remains

Saying love is a wonderful thing

It can't fly on a broken wing

It's the heartaches baby hitting again

I ain't wearing no mask to prove I'm a man

Blind folded morning day begins

Still thinking about you baby and your brown velvet skin.

refrein:

And the road swallows her name

And the memory still remains

Saying love is a wonderful thing

It can't fly on a broken wing

And the road swallows her name

And the memory still remains

Saying love is a wonderful thing

It can't fly on a broken wing

I'm sitting down here and I'm feeling annoyed

All those months and fun and joy

But all there's left is sorrow and pain

Where have you gone I'm going insane

refrein:

And the road swallows her name

And the memory still remains

Saying love is a wonderful thing

It can't fly on a broken wing

And the road swallows her name

And the memory still remains

Saying love is a wonderful thing

It can't fly on a broken wing
