

Goldfinger, My Head

Where are you now
I want to talk to you
I'm sitting here alone
waiting by the phone

Where are you now
I want to talk to you
if only you were home
I wouldn't be alone
I wait for you

Where are you now
are you just toying with me do you need me to play all your high school games

Where are you now
I guess I'll try once more I don't have much to say but it's the tenth call that I made

And it's ringing in my head yeah the last thing that you said now
you said to me

I ask you just what is it you've tasted your answer's hushed I'm wasted, so wasted
and it's ringing in my head
yah the last thing
you said now
And all the promises you made were the others just the same now same to me

All those promises they never work out right make me believe you were home in bed last night where did you sleep last night?

Where are you now
I want to talk to you
this obsession here today is it pushing you away?

where are you know I feel like I'm stalking you is it something that I lack?
why won't you ever call me back?