

Goldie Lookin Chain, Manifesto, The

Hey, lick the tip, why dontcha...

In 1983, a team of crack draw enthusiasts created a masterplan. A design for a way of livin' so revolutionary, so groundbreaking, that its very concept posed a threat to the fabric of society.

A threat even greater than that of having a stiffy whilst standing in the middle of a Glyn Williams' coach full of nuns.

The implications of this radical movements' political manifesto posed a threat to the UK authorities who in turn drove its founder members under ground.

Now, for the first time in world 'istory, these shadowy figures of chaos reveal... The Manifesto