

Grace Slick, Come Again; Toucan

(Music by David Freiberg / Lyrics by Grace Slick 1973)

Grace Slick

Mistakes are made because words are misunderstood

It's all, all in how you talk

Walking over somebody, sounds like a strange thing to do, but it's all, all in how you are (walk).

Seems like it might be the right thing to say at the time and I (how d'you) know I probably say it again, gimme just a little taste, gimme just a little taste more and I'll be flying out, flying out the wise and old, old is the whole world, and I'd just turn around like a baby and I'd crawl, crawl right back inside...

Mistakes are made because words, words are misunderstood

It's all, all in how you talk

Walking over somebody, sounds like a strange thing to do, but it's all, it's all in how you are (walk).

(Well it) Seems like it might be the right thing to say at the time and I know, know I'll do it again and I'll say it again, gimme just a little, gimme just a little taste more and I'll be flying, flying out the wise and old, old is the whole world, and I'd just turn around like a baby and I'd crawl, right back inside...
