

Graham Nash, Blizzard Of Lies

Blizzard of Lies

Written by Graham Nash

Pub. By Nashnotes Inc. (BMI)

from the album Songs For Survivors

2002

In the sea of sadness there's bound to be a tear or two.
And in the maze of madness someone's got a sign for you.
And though it seems so dark something clear is coming through.

Oh, you've been here before and seen your temperature rise.
You can't take anymore, so wipe the tear from your eyes.
Don't walk out of that door, back into a blizzard of lies.

And when the sky is falling and everything is on your mind.
If the child is calling, you've got to leave it all behind.
And though it seems so hard, just turn around and you will find.

Oh, you've been here before and seen your temperature rise.
You can't take anymore, so wipe the tear from your eyes.
Don't walk out of that door, back into a blizzard of lies.

And if you're always using, excuses will be your friend.
And they might never leave you, could be with you until the end.
You know just who you are, so turn around and make amends.

Oh, you've been here before and seen your temperature rise.
You can't take anymore, so wipe the tear from your eyes.
Don't walk out of that door, back into a blizzard of lies.
Back into a blizzard of lies, oh, back into a blizzard of lies.