Grammatrain, Homesick

So your tired of wakin up on empty You left for something that ain't real So you think a couple of familiar faces is gonna turn it all around You wanna be where they still pump your gas for you where they remember your name They think that you are some beauty queen or somethin better where they remember your name Ain't it good to think about the weather Doesn't seem to be time for that no more It's hard to hear when you're busy sayin what you want said Well what you want said, it ain't clear You wanna be where they still open doors for you It's not hard for them to remember you at all They light your cigarette and tell their friends you used to love them Where they remember your name More forgiveness More time away from feelin like you do today More forgiveness More time away from feelin this way It's easy when you laugh, reminds you of you It's easy when it's easy, it still ain't easy at all So you're tired of wakin up on empty You left for something that ain't right, ain't right You wanna be where they still pump your gas for you where they remember your name They think that you are some beauty queen or somethin better where they remember your name More forgiveness More time away from feelin like you do today More forgiveness More time away from feelin this way
