

Granddaddy, You Drove Your Car Into A Moving Train

On the telephone all morning it's been a while since I talked to you your voice's transferred sweet I wish forever I could talk to you of course I blame that guy Tom I'm sure he talked you into doing it although I'm sorry he's dead when you go to him I kill him again... and again...and again...

keep trying that tapes and records
I thought you loved them over anything this conversation's hard for me and stupid but we had to do it

you drove your car into a moving train you held each other headed for the end and they say it went blank now here you are with just a few days left

keep trying that tapes and records
I thought you loved them over anything
this conversation's hard for me and stupid
but we had to do it