

Granian, Make It So

You've been suffering for so long,
You can't handle it on your own
They'll all understand when you're gone
That you can never make it come undone
Do you want to try to make it so

Time and again, we're left here wondering,
What made you go down that road
You pushed away and hid behind a smile,
For them not for you,
They'll never understand what you've done,
You're breaking all the rules.

It brands your eyes
Melts your soul
Back around into another time
Might make it so hard to live
Without you there

Then they always seem
To push you where you
Tend to get knocked down,
Again and again.

Nobody knows the real reason now,
Still they watch and still we pray for you that you're Looking down from above the moon.

It brands your eyes
Melts your soul
Back around into another time
Might make it so hard to live
Without you there
It brands your eyes
Melts your soul
Back around into another time
Might make it so hard to live
Without you there
