

Graveland, Die For Freedom

For freedom - Death

For freedom - Blood

For freedom - Fire

For freedom - Destruction

Warrior awake

And step upon the path of honor

Bid farewell to your family and land

Because the time for war has come

The anthem of war horns, and battle drumming

Are heard all throughout the lands

The rhythm of war, wrath and destruction

When the enemy crosses your border

Red glows of fire will greet his coming

No one will defend your land, without you bravery and hand

No one will defend your freedom, without your sacrifice

Today is the day that you make a self-sacrifice

For bloodied Gods sacrifice your life

For freedom - Death

For freedom - Blood

For freedom - Fire

For freedom - Destruction

Even though, today you will be

Fighting against hordes alone

Even though cowards and traitors are outnumbering you

The Gods will always be with you, on your way of war and honor

You yourself against everybody else, will wage a victorious war

Just like your ancestors you will fight today

And nobody will take away your honor and glory

Your wrath and will is all that counts now

Your spirits fortitude embedded in blood

On the battlefield under the sign of Wotan

One against enemy's hordes

You'll stand proud, ready to fight, never backing out