

Gravity Kills, Goodbye

In a mirror of you, reflections of you, you're showing what you Feel like inside, Need the power of two, just me and you An image that you hold in your mind. Sometimes you're wrong and then sometimes you're right, You don't expect me to put up a fight. I'm sick and tired of all of your lies I'm sick and tired and I'm saying goodbye.
I don't need this poison, I don't need control, I don't need forgiveness
I don't need you--You're a shadow of me what I used to be. I'm fading as the light dims outside, I know what you need, because I can see I'm taking over thoughts in your mind. Sometimes you're wrong and then sometimes you're right, You're in the dark so I'll turn on the light. I'm sick and tired of all your lies. I'm fucking tired and I'm saying goodbye
I don't need this poison, I don't need control
I don't need forgiveness, I don't need you--
I don't need this poison, I don't need control
I don't need forgiveness, I don't need you