Gravity Kills, Poetry And Power

This is nostalgia And only the hero Fights for me and you dear listener You leave old memories And such things disgust me Storm the door, I must get out Poetry and power Ice and fire This is poetry and power Poetry and power Ice and fire This is poetry and power You're worse than mirrors Are you reflecting I don't know All this help leaves me cold This is confusing me again I must get out Poetry and Power Ice and Fire This is poetry and power Ice and Fire This is poetry and power Your poetry is power Your ice becomes fire All things disgust you And you are the listener A hero dies for me I must get out This is poetry and power Your poetry is power Your ice becomes fire This is poetry and power Your poetry is power Your ice becomes fire This is poetry and power Your poetry is power Your ice becomes fire This is poetry and power This is poetry and power This is poetry and power