

Greg Trooper, I Love It When She Lies

Ever since I was a kid in school
And learned all about the golden rule
Even if it meant I'd lose my cool
I would never lie

And if anyone told a fib to me
They'd lose a friend and gain an enemy
But all that changed just recently
Since I fell for her

I love it when she lies to me
Tells me that we'll always be
Together for eternity
She don't even have to try
It comes to her so naturally
She bends the truth so easily
When she looks into my eyes
And tells me I'm the prize
I love it when she lies

Tonight she'll tell me once again
I'm her lover and her closest friend
Then kiss me deep like it will never end
Like she's got nothing to hide

I might find someone else someday
Who means every single word they say
But honestly honesty
It's not all that it's cracked up to be

I love it when she lies to me
Tells me that we'll always be
Together for eternity
She don't even have to try
It comes to her so naturally
She bends the truth so easily
When she looks into my eyes
And tells me I'm the prize
I love it when she lies
