

Gretchen, For Me

(verse 1)

When you think about your life and all that you've been through Did the tears and the sweat
ever really pay the dues for you labor, your labor to justify your own in a life you could not savor
'cause you towed the weight alone

(verse 2)

Hope is fading
I can see it in your eyes
'cause you never found the answer to the questions deep inside so you hunger, you hunger for the taste of something new just to quench your desperation for the peace you never knew

(pre-chorus) (not sang first time)

(chorus)

Well I know it's hard, cause I've tried
Not to fail, just to get it right
But the bearer, of it all
He was the Lamb, that took the fall
For me

(verse 3)

When you think about your life
and all that you've been through
for your labor, your anger to try to justify your own In a life you can not savor
'cause you towed the weight alone

(pre-chorus)

you say you want it you say you wanted too

(chorus) (chorus)
