

Grey Daze, Hole

I would have sailed away, if I'd known that nothing would change
Staring out my window sill, in my wasted prison cell

And I know what you want
And I know what you feel
As I cradle your loving
And watch you disappear

And I feel your heart beatin', pounding in my head
And I'd like to control you, 'cause I can't control myself... myself

Rain come my way, mold my head like a ball of clay
Softly wither into my grave, never to see the sun again

And I feel your heart beatin', pounding in my head
And I'd like to control you, 'cause I can't control myself... myself

All alone in a cloud by myself, so sorry wish I could find a way
Back into your hole again, but I've become your enemy

And I feel your heart beat, pounding in my head
And I'd like to control you, 'cause I can't control myself... myself

Hole...
Hole...
Hole...
Hole...
