Grief, Isolation

too many fucking people I don't know why but people make me angry inner segregation isolated solitude depressed reality saves my sanity happiness is a state of mind sadness fills all minds all the time we are not alive

I wish I'd never see another human again keep my hostile thoughts to myself I'd rather be alone