

Growing Down, Wake Up Tragedy

Suffocation breaks my stripe another one who felt apart nothing left behind this scene just victims of time embracing distances were it's undistructive but all i've made has failed I'm locked up in this jail I finally escaped from this hate someone had a chance to bring light so clear imagine harder and we will live it so deep where the world is base on a vision and were I can feel you next to me broken windows and dust on the road sweeping the lifeline of love all I've got from you is deception but i've always denied the truth rising up my failure I'm trying to prevail you wake up tragedy
you want peace from me but taking so deep an overstated reality open up my fears that's stucked up in my eyes