

Guadalajara, Burn Them Down

A landscape full of mines They are not easy to find take good care on your way and with the pen in your hand you are able to plan the route that you're gonna take

now it's time to leave the train get off an break the chains cause the rails would lead you on a path where you don't belong discover all the borders and boundaries in your head and start to burn them down it will never be too late so try to understand

on this journey straight to your luck out of this desperate days you have to follow your heart on the ashes of the past will stand buildings that last made of visions and dreams so turn over a new leaf admission tickets for free only risk is the charge answers to the questions come soon but will they ever be clear? just the future will show

now it's time to leave the train
get off an break the chains
cause the rails would lead you on
a path where you don't belong

discover all the borders and boundaries in your head
and start to burn them down
it will never be too late
so try to understand