

Guided By Voices, Everybody Thinks I'm A Raincloud

I crept from a soft dimension
When one of my souls was lighter
And landed painfully
Into my big chance suit
But I didn't really need it
To stay awake

Cause this is not my day
And nobody really cares
Anymore anyhow
And nobody called again
Cause they say that I'm too lazy
To stay alive

Every day it's another world
With every change of tomorrow
Hung over and hungry to fix it
A miracle cure for my sorrow
With pillows of self-esteem
Alone in a satellite dream
Where I can't forget about a world
Where every beam I choose
Is shining alone on you
Shining alone on you, yeah

Every day it's another world
With every change of tomorrow
Hung over and hungry to fix it
A miracle cure for my sorrow
With pillows of self-esteem
Alone in a satellite dream
Where I can't forget about a world
Where every beam I choose
Is shining alone on you
Shining alone on you, yeah
Shining alone on you