

Guy Clark, Hank Williams Said It Best

One man hawk is another man dove, one man hug is another man shove
One man rock is another man sand, one man fist is another man hand
One man tool is another man toy, one man grief is another man joy
One man squawk is another man sing, one man crutch is another man wing

One man pride is another man humble, one man step is another man stumble
One man pleasure is another man pain, one man loss is another man gain
One man can is another man grail, one man curse is another man sail
One man right is another man wrong, one man curse is another man song

Chorus

For every father daughter
For every mother son
The only think the same
Is that is ain for everyone
Hank Williams said it best
He said it a long time ago
"Unless you have made no mistakes in your life
Be careful of stones that you throw"

One man deuce is another man ace, one man back is another man face
One man reason is another man rhyme, one man dollar is another man dime
One man tree is another man post, one man angel is another man ghost
One man rain is another man drought, one man hope is another man doubt

One man false is another man fair, one man toup is another man hair
One man hand is another man stub, one man feast is another man grub
One man dread is another man dream, one man sigh is another man scream
One man water is another man wine, one man daughter leave another man cryin'

Chorus

One man famine is another man feast, one man pet is another man beast
One man bat is another man ball, one man art is another man scrawl
One man friend is another man foe, one man Joesph is another man Joe
One man hammer is another man nail, one man freedom is another man jail

One man road is another man rut, one man if is another man but
One man treasure is another man trash, one man landin' is another man crash
One man word is another man lie, one man dirt is another man sky
One man skin is another man color, one man killer is another man brother

Chorus