

Guy Wyant, Wake Me When It's Over

Cut the hardline, let the quiet darkness drown your helpless mind
Soon you'll be awake in a world of another kind

Why waste your time in this ludicrous world of "pride or pain";
You lived in fear, now let it go, and leave it all behind

I'll be leaving soon enough, if you're smart you'll tag along
I'll be leaving soon enough, if you're smart you'll tag along
We have to find a world where we belong

Methinks the world will be quite alright without you for a while
When no-one's happy it's impossible to lose a smile

You can stay for forever or perhaps for just a night
Forget your boss, your friends, there's no one you should even dial

I'll be leaving soon enough, if you're smart you'll tag along
I'll be leaving soon enough, if you're smart you'll tag along
We have to find a world where we belong
