

H2O, M & M

Growing up full of apologies
Spent all my time trying to be me
We all know it's never really easy
At least I know I can admit it

You need to remember, you need time to forget
We need the time to change our minds
And separate the present from tomorrow
Disguised as yesterday

Time moves so slow, but change comes too fast
On top of the world, how could it last?
So many hands to shake, never give you a break
They think you have it all
But where are those hands when you're falling

I remember how it used to be
Things were great, why did they change
You need time to remember, you need time to forgive
We needed time to make our minds
And try to change the present for tomorrow
Because of yesterday